Find out about the RE Quality Mark

Do you and your school want to celebrate great RE? This session will explore the new version of the REQM award (published 2020). After a short presentation, Linda will lead a discussion on how the award might fit the contexts of schools represented at the meeting. REQM assessors operate in a highly experienced team from a range of professional backgrounds, and evidence from their feedback, and school evidence, will form part of the presentation. All REQM materials are free to use until an application is made for the award - have a look at the website before the meeting? <https://www.reqm.org/>

Linda Rudge

Linda is currently the Chair of the National Association of SACRES (NASACRE), convenor of the NASACRE/Westhill awards panel, and a Trustee for St Luke's College Foundation. She is also a member of Cornwall SACRE. Linda was the founding Director (2012) of the Learn Teach Lead RE network <https://ltlre.org/>, and she is a member of the 'Big Ideas' research and development group (Wintersgill et al, 2018) <https://bigideasforre.org/>. Her work at the University of East Anglia from 1993 to 2011 included directing the Centre for Spirituality and Religion in Education. Linda has been project manager of the RE Quality Mark for the RE Council since 2016.
